Hexaflex Diagnostic and Assessment

PM: 1 -2 3 4 5 Dominance of Conceptual Past/Future, and/or Distractibility Assess worry, rumination, Valuing Weak, Confused, Experiential Avoidance distractibility? Restricted, Absent Assess avoided content? Planning, organizing, Defensive valuing? Assess avoidant repertoire? apologizing? Awareness of values; values *Assess capacity for *Assess capacity for avoidance; values as acceptance. PM focus? burden? (not to be confused with saying Restricted range of valuing? yes or no) *Assess capacity for defused Present Moment accepting valuing. Acceptance Values A: 1 -2 · 3 · 4 · 5 · V: 1 · 2 · 3 · 4 · 5 · Committed Defusion D: 1 -2 3 4 5 -CA: 1. -2. 3. 4. 5. Action Cognitive Fusion Self Assess breadth and integration of fused thoughts/beliefs?

Assess specific fused content?
*Assess capacity for defused accepting interaction with thoughts and other aspects of experience as what they are not what they say they are.

Inflexible Content
Fusion?
Impoverished Self?
Fusion with self-as-content?
Content breadth and flexibility?
Assess capacity for self-as-process
*Assess capacity for self-as-context

Inaction, Impulsivity, Avoidant
Persistence
Inflexible stories about committed action?
*Assess capacity to see
committed action as choice,
capacity for defused,
accepting committed action?

Hexaflex Diagnostic and Assessment Worksheets

S: 1. -2. 3. 4. 5.

The hexaflex diagnostic is a functional dimensional approach to case conceptualization, assessment. and %diagnosis.+It is intended to link assessment of functioning on clinically relevant dimensions to interventions. The approach is explicitly tied to a ACT and behavior theory more generally. The diagram above provides some domain specific orientation to common clinical difficulties within the dimension. The rating scale for each domain is intended as a general estimate of functioning within the domain with 1 as low functioning and 5 as high functioning. The worksheets should not be approached as a mere gathering of information. Deliberate, present moment focused questioning will give the best estimate of both capacities and for areas for therapeutic focus.

Hexaflex diagnostic note pages can be used to conceptualize therapist and client functioning in a given session. High scores connote optimal functioning. Low scores connote poor functioning.

Note sheets can also be used as case notes to describe focus of intervention in a session and functioning with each noteworthy domain.

S: · 1 · -2 · 3 · 4 · 5 ·

Date				Client ID
	Present	Moment	Worksheet
Capacity for Present Momen relatively benign content, such material. Watch for changes in during ongoing interactions in t	as a simple brea pace during ther	thing meditation	. Also assess with res	spect to more challenging
		.

			-
			_

Acceptance-Experiential Avoidance Worksheet
Avoided Content: Assess content that is unacceptable. Remember, even things that seem pleasant may take on aversive qualities. Intimacy may be highly valued and terrifying. Content may take any form. Aversives are simply things an individual would work to postpone, eliminate, avoid, or to reduce in intensity and duration. Although experiential avoidance refers to aspects of ones experience that are avoided, you should also list external events that the client avoids in this section. Often external events are experienced as aversive in their own rite. For example, situations involving interpersonal conflict may be avoided. Individuals doing so may find that these situations generate anxiety, fear, and memories of conflict that are also avoided. Remember that experiential avoidance may take many forms. What is the client rationalizing, tolerating, ignoring, or experiencing with resignation (which sometimes looks a bit like acceptance, but without the vitality). Where you see these you will find avoided content. Many of the items listed here will also be important as potential areas for defusion work. List external events, bodily states, emotions, thoughts, memories, urges, cravings, memories that are avoided. Finally, list the personal qualities clients see themselves as lacking (e.g., courage, intelligence?).
Specific aspects of experience the client avoids or struggles to tolerate: thoughts, urges, bodily sensations, memories, emotions

Situations the client avoids or struggles to tolerate: conflict, intimacy, social settings

Things the client wishes were more so: courage, honesty, intelligence

Date_

Client ID_

Date			Client II
Acce	ptance-Experi	iential Avoida	ince Worksh	eet
Avoidant Repertoires: Meto which a response allow a client how they cope (e.g. emerges will provide a stanot have to look pleasant. sad. Conversely, getting seto look like avoidance, so be means of avoiding.	rs the client to avoid, esca g., get busy, distract, thin arting place for our list of a Depending on a clients and may help him or her to	ape, or attenuate the avoil he positive thoughts). When avoidant repertoires. Rehistory, getting angry meaning angry. A	rersive content listed p hat clients do when su emember, the form of a light help him or her to voidance does not eve	previously. Asking uch content avoidance does avoid feeling en always have

				_
				,

Date	Client ID
Fusion-Defusion We	orksheet
Fusion: Assess fused thoughts, beliefs, emotions, evaluations. storic (past fusion),+what the future will be like (future fusion),+why client (past fusion), beliefs about what would have to happen in order for the siewed as possible. Include stories about people in the clients life theme. Stories about past, future, and current situation that have the of the interiority of these stories (bring present moment focus to them veracity of possibility/impossibility, truth/falsity, or justice/injustice of clients experience of possibility/impossibility, truth/falsity, or justice/in Past-Fusion	s believe they have the problems they have hem to move ahead in life and whether that e, especially when how they are is a strong e feel of inflexibility. Work to get a felt sense m). Stay out of conversations about the the stories, except to get a felt sense of the
Future-Fusion
World-Fusion
Others-Fusion

*Please note homage to A. T Beck in this worksheet.

Hexaflex Diagnostic v. 6-29-07 Copyright © 2006, by Kelly G. Wilson for The Heart of ACT. Reproduce and use this form at will for the purpose of treatment and research. Do not distribute without the express consent of the author. Contact: kwilson@olemiss.edu

Date		Client ID
Self Work	sheet
Self-as-Content Assess breadth and flexibility of conversation.
.
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
.
Self-Fusion/Avoidance List content of self-as-cor about %dond know why I am how I am.+Assess ca process exercises can sometimes be the simplest	pacity to experience self as distinc	t from content. Self-as-

· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·

	.

Hexaflex Diagnostic v. 6-29-07 Copyright © 2006, by Kelly G. Wilson for The Heart of ACT. Reproduce and use this form at will for the purpose of treatment and research. Do not distribute without the express consent of the author. Contact: kwilson@olemiss.edu

Date		Client ID
	Values Worksheet
relevant valued domains. Linger	ains of valued living as dynamic, ongoing patterns. (inside the questions about valued domains before a nere information gathering. Mindful appreciation is k	lllowing any answers. Stay in as burden+emerges. Capacity to	nes areas/content where a sense of constraint, % and be present to values and to action or non-action as is real and not under aversive control.

Hexaflex Diagnostic v. 6-29-07 Copyright © 2006, by Kelly G. Wilson for The Heart of ACT. Reproduce and use this form at will for the purpose of treatment and research. Do not distribute without the express consent of the author. Contact: kwilson@olemiss.edu

Date	Client ID
	Commitment Worksheet
world where the client could many world where the could many the world where the world where the could make the	nitment: Assess domains of committed action and meaning of corake and keep commitments, what commitments would they make ney would like to make and keep? What small, but meaningful comery present moment focused assessment will be helpful here.	and keep?+
	nce: Assess client stories about commitment especially failures, g sense of limitation or constraint. You will find these if you mindfulns using the questions above.

